Introduction

SEMI is honored to co-host this luncheon with the American Institute in Taiwan (AIT), featuring remarks by AIT Director Raymond Greene on the latest U.S. technology and trade policies. Vice President Bi-khim Hsiao will also join Director Greene on stage for a high-level policy dialogue.

With over 28 years of diplomatic experience and a career focused on U.S. engagement in the Indo-Pacific, Director Greene is now serving his third posting in Taiwan. As the top U.S. representative, he plays a vital role in advancing U.S.-Taiwan collaboration—particularly in semiconductors and high-tech—at a time when global industries are closely watching the evolving policy landscape under the new U.S. administration.

Join us for this special occasion that brings together two key voices in U.S.-Taiwan relations—Director Greene and Vice President Hsiao—for a timely and forward-looking exchange on the future of bilateral collaboration.
