Women in Semiconductors: Finding Your Voice, Owning Your Value

Join us for a Women in Semiconductors event hosted by EMD Electronics, with support from the SEMI Foundation, on January 28, 2027, from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

The program will feature an inspiring keynote, an interactive session, and an engaging panel discussion with four women leaders representing companies across the semiconductor industry. Together, we'll explore the themes of self-advocacy and personal branding, sharing insights and practical strategies for finding your voice, communicating your value, advocating for yourself effectively, and taking ownership of your professional growth.

Whether you are building your career, stepping into leadership, or looking for new ways to make your contributions recognized, this is an opportunity to learn from industry leaders, exchange experiences, and connect with women across the semiconductor community.
